

"My Interview With G-d"

Compliments of Rabbi Moshe Wolf

September 2026

I dreamed, I had an interview with G-d. "Come in", G-d said. "So, you would like to interview Me?"

"If you have the time", I said. G-d smiled and said, "My time is eternity and is enough to do everything.

what questions do you have in mind to ask me?" "What surprises you most about mankind?"

G-d answered, "That they get bored of being children, are in a rush to grow up, and then long to be children again.

That they lose their health to make money and then lose their money to restore their health.

That by thinking anxiously about the future, they forget the present, such that they live neither for the present nor the future.

That they live as if they will never die, and they die as if they had never lived."

G-d's hands took mine and we were sitting for a while and then I asked, "As a parent, what are some of life's lessons you want your children to learn?"

G-d replied with a smile, "To learn that they cannot make anyone love them.

What they can do is to let themselves be loved.

To learn that what is most valuable is not what they have in their lives, but who they have in their lives.

To learn that it is not good to compare themselves to others. All will be judged individually on their own merits, not as a group on a comparison basis!

To learn that a rich person is not the one who has the most, but is one who needs the least.

To learn that it only takes a few seconds to open profound wounds in persons we love, and that it takes many years to heal them.

To learn to forgive by practicing forgiveness. To learn that there are persons who love them dearly, but simply do not know how to express or show their feelings.

To learn that money can buy everything but happiness. To learn that two people can look at the same thing and see it differently.

To learn that a true friend is someone who knows everything about them, and likes them anyway.

To learn that it is not always enough that they be forgiven by others, but that they have to forgive themselves."

I sat there for a while enjoying the moment. I thanked Him for His time and for all that He has done for me and my family, and He replied,

"Anytime. I'm here 24 hours a day. All you have to do is ask for me, and I'll answer."

People will forget what you said. People will forget what you did, but People will never forget how you made them feel.

(Please Note: Spelling out The name of G-d,

I do not spell out The name of G-d out of respect.

spelling out The Name and then throwing it in the trash, would be a desecration of The Name, so I put in the dash.

This is a religious custom I follow, and please don't be offended. Thanks for understanding.

If you would like to discuss it further, please don't hesitate to drop me a line or give me a call)

The following story was shared with me by one of our troops.

Read it and when done, read it again, and let it sink in, then cut it out and keep on your fridge!

"The Ugly Wife"

A story every man should read. VERY POWERFUL!

One day, a man went to visit his elderly father and said firmly, "Dad, I want to divorce my wife."

"My wife has changed. She's no longer young. Her body isn't the same anymore.

She doesn't take care of herself the way she used to. I think I deserve someone better...

A younger, slimmer, more attractive woman." The old father looked at him silently.

Then he said, "Let me come to your house tomorrow.

I want to see her myself. And if you're right... I'll support your decision."

The next day, the father went to visit his son's house.

He carefully observed his daughter-in-law — while she served coffee, while she picked up the children's toys, while she smiled — tired, yet gentle.

He said nothing. He simply left.

Three days later, he called his son and said, "You're right. That woman is no longer beautiful.

She doesn't shine the way she once did." "But listen... I found the perfect woman for you — a wonderful woman, more beautiful than anyone else. She lives in a place called Home."

The son, surprised, asked, "Home? Where is that? How do I get there?"

The father looked into his eyes and said, "That Home is your own house.

That woman lives there — the one who was with you in your best days...

and also, in your worst." "She is the one who sacrificed her body to bring your children into the world.

She grew old with you — not from neglect, but from love."

"She hasn't lost her beauty... You have lost your sight."

"Because when you stop looking with love, everything starts to look 'ugly.'

And when you water with indifference, even the most beautiful flower withers."

"A wife doesn't become young again through surgery or filters — but through kind words, gentle touches, and respect." "If you truly want a beautiful woman, make your woman feel loved again." We can all take something from this story.

Now take a moment stop what you are doing and let your spouse or partner know, they are loved, special and appreciated, thank them for putting up with us.

Before we close, some humor from the "Moshe Files" to keep you smiling:

"Having A Tall Glass Of Wine"

A woman is sitting on the couch one evening with her husband, gently cradling a tall glass of red wine. She stares deeply into it, sighs, and says, "you know, you are so sweet, I love you so much, and I love you more and more every day, I honestly don't know how I could ever live without you."

The husband smiles warmly and asks, "Is that you talking or the wine in you talking?"

She looks up and replies, "no, it's me... talking to the wine." LOL (Moral: always treat you spouse with respect...lol)

Please note: To all members of my flock of the Jewish faith as we are about to celebrate the Jewish New Year, in the beginning of September, may you all be blessed with a "Shana Tova" A Happy and Healthy New Year. May the coming year be one of your best ones yet!

On behalf of ALL the Chaplains, may G-d bless you, keep you safe and always keep you in His loving care. AMEN.

Thank you for the sacrifices you make every day, in your Holy work of protecting and serving G-d's children, we couldn't do it without you!

Should you need an ear to listen, a shoulder to lean on, or perhaps have some good humor to share, (I know you have a good joke or good story to share) please do not hesitate to drop us a line or give us a call.

All of the Chaplains contact information and upcoming functions can be found on our website: www.chicagopcm.org, look us up.
